06/01/2020	35	Minute Entry for proceedings held before Judge Alan D Albright: Case called for telephonic discovery hearing. Parties discuss source code issues. Parties discussed where the source codes would be available to be seen. The Court will order that someone from Facebook to take the source code to one location for review and the plaintiff will reimburse the defendant the cost for airline tickets, etc. Parties can discuss as to the best place to have the source code being. able to be seen, i.e. Austin, Houston, Boston, New York. Parties discuss the number of pages of source code to be provided. The Court has determined that 250 pages of course code – with 25 consecutive pages. If parties are not happy with this amount and cannot agree, they should come back to the Court with reasons why more pages are needed. Facebook will bring a source code computer to depositions with expert witnesses. Issue is to what goes into the record. The plaintiff would like to put source code in the record so that the exhibit will correspond to what the witnesses was speaking to. The Court will Order that if the source code is used during deposition, the names of any files open, line numbers of items displayed and the time stamp that this was used will be referenced. Issue regarding note taking during source code review. Note taking computer is agreed on. Parties have agreed the note takingcomputer will not copy any source code at all. The defendant does not want to allow any media used to take notes as it is too each to be copied. There was arguments regarding page limitations on the notes. The issue is as to notes. Number of pages, etc. Facebook suggests 100 pages of notes is appropriate. The plaintiff disagrees that 100 page limitations is not adequate. The Court set a baseline of 200 pages of notes. If the plaintiff finds that the amount needs to be expanded, they should talk to defendant and if the defendant disagrees, then they should contact the law clerk and a further hearing will be held. Notes taken from a note taking computer with source code shall be classed as highly confidential. The Court will allow the note taking be done electronically and then copied by defendant to be provided to the plaintiff. The plaintiff says that they cannot go out of the country with any electronics encoded onto them as confidential is when there is travel for this case. The Court does not feel he needs to make a ruling on this issue at this time.(Minute entry documents are not available electronically.). (Court Reporter Kristie Davis.)(am) (Entered: 06/01/2020)
